For the purposes of Hungarian accreditation, each credit awarded according to these Regulations is expressed in ECTS credits as well. One credit earned based on these Regulations is worth two ECTS credits.

3.3.4. Doctoral Candidates will participate in the following types of activities together with Probationary Doctoral Students:

A. DOCTORAL SEMINARS:
   a/ Great Books Seminars:
   Aims: To discuss with students classics of jurisprudence or other social sciences. The selection of books is reviewed each year and the students have the right to make proposals for the inclusion of titles.

   Credit requirements: Students are expected to submit quality essays on the fourteen selected books during the three years of their doctoral studies and to constructively participate in the debate on those books. Senior students are expected to summarize and critically comment upon the essays of their junior colleagues at these sessions.

   b/ Visiting Professors’ Seminars:
   Aims: The invited guest professors are asked to propose and discuss with the students a recently written book, chapter of a book, or article written by the invited scholar or another expert in the field. The aim is to expose the students to cutting edge topics and to allow discussion of challenging topics with renowned authors and leading experts.

Credit requirements: Active participation at eight contact meetings is required. More than one credit could be earned on this basis during the doctoral studies.

c/ Reading Seminars:
Aims: The articles and other materials to be discussed are, in principle, proposed by the doctoral students. Faculty may also make such proposals but the ultimate choice remains with the S.J.D. students.

In order to help the preparation of the seminar, the students' proposal is to be submitted accompanied by a short written note indicating the reasons behind the proposal and the name(s) of the professors whom the students would like to invite for the session. The proposal should reach the LEGS Doctoral Program Director at least two months prior to the date of the planned seminar, who will, in turn, make contact with and invite the proposed guest professor.

The materials for discussion may be distributed for reading and analysis at a later date, but no later than two weeks prior to the scheduled seminar date. All proposals are subject to the approval of the S.J.D. Program Director.

One or two S.J.D. students will first summarize the topic and then raise questions for discussion to be moderated by them. The guest professor is expected to contribute to the discussions with comments and questions.

Credit requirements: Active and constructive participation at seven contact meetings and moderating a discussion at one contact meeting yields the requisite number of credits.

d/ Work in Progress Seminars:
Aims: To provide the students with the possibility to present their research results and thus to expose them to the critical evaluation of their peers.

Credit requirements: At least, two quality work in progress presentations adequately displaying the presenter’s research results are expected from the students during the three years of their doctoral studies.

e/ Thesis writing course
Aims: To introduce the students to the CEU requirements as far as style, structure, and citation are concerned. The course will also deal with the main problems and dilemmas likely to be encountered as well as writing styles.

Credit requirements: Passing of the course.
B. COURSEWORK:
Doctoral students are expected to take one or more masters courses that are related to their dissertation topic, including courses offered by other departments, during their first two years of doctoral studies.

Courses tailor-made to doctoral students may also be offered by the Department of Legal Studies.

C. PARTICIPATION AT WORKSHOPS AND CONFERENCES:

a/ Annual doctoral workshops:
Aim: These weeklong workshops are organized as a rule once per academic year specifically for doctoral students to allow them to focus on particular interdisciplinary topics necessary for doing doctoral research and writing a doctoral dissertation. Top international experts are invited to deliver these courses. Typical themes include: comparative law and methodology, law and literature, or law and economics.

Credit requirements: Constructive class participation at nine contact hours and submission of a quality essay yields a passing grade.

b/ Conferences:
Aim: The students are also given the possibility to attend and - to the extent possible - also to present a paper at interdisciplinary conferences organized by LEGS to get acquainted with the style, method and themes discussed at international events of this sort.

Credit requirements: Participation and submission of a quality essay on a topic discussed during the conference yields the foreseen number of credits.

D. TEACHING ACTIVITIES AND TEACHING ASSISTANCE
Aims: The Doctoral Students are expected to teach during their doctoral studies and to engage in various forms of teaching assistance to help them gain experience for an academic career. The Department will introduce the Doctoral Students to the teaching process and the students have to participate in all kinds of activities organized to that end - including, but not limited to, proctoring the examinations, structuring the courses and the reading materials.

Credit requirements: Students are awarded credits commensurate to the time and complexity of teaching activity.

E. PUBLICATIONS
Aims: Students are strongly encouraged to publish shorter papers during their doctoral studies, albeit not to the detriment of their dissertation-related research and writing. Some of the doctoral seminars are devoted to questions concerning how to get published.

Credit requirements: Credits may be earned according to the quality of the published paper based on:
- the quality of the publisher (e.g., whether internationally known or a local publishing house),
- whether published in a peer-reviewed law journal or not,
- the ranking of the law journal.

Whether, and how many, credits should be awarded to a publication is determined by the student’s Program Chair who may consult the student’s supervisor(s) on the matter.

3.3.5. Doctoral Students are obliged - in addition to the duties specified by the CEU Doctoral Regulations - to regularly contact their supervisors and to submit monthly and annual reports on their activities, including research results, publications and other major achievements.

3.3.6. Doctoral Students are also expected to constructively participate in other activities organized by the University and/or other departments (e.g., public lectures, conferences).

3.4. Thesis Structure-Proposal
3.4.1. Probationary Doctoral Candidates shall submit their Thesis Structure-Proposal before the end of the first Semester to their thesis supervisors and/or Program Chairs. The Thesis Structure-Proposal is to contain:
   - the anticipated thesis-table of contents;
   - identification of the main issues;
   - identification of the main sources of research; and
   - bibliography.

3.4.2. Probationary Doctoral Candidates shall submit before the end of the month of September in the second academic year of their doctoral studies:
   - the first draft of one chapter of their thesis; and 4.2. S.J.D. Candidates may request stopping the stipend or withdrawal as per the provisions of the CEU Doctoral Regulations.

5. Supervision
5.1. The provisions of the CEU Doctoral Regulations in force apply respectively.

5.2. The responsibilities of the supervisor and the associate supervisor include in particular:

6.4.2. The guidelines for thesis evaluation are as follows:
- whether the CEU University Thesis Guidelines on language, grammar and structure have been complied with;
- whether the CEU rules against plagiarism have been adhered to and whether the thesis consistently follows one recognized legal citation system (e.g., the Harvard Law School Blue Book of Citations or equivalent);
- whether the thesis makes a significant contribution to the body of knowledge and understanding of the subject with which it deals;
- whether the thesis demonstrates the candidate's capacity to carry out quality independent research;
- whether the thesis contains material worthy of publication; and
- whether substantial knowledge in the specific subject is demonstrated.

6.4.3. A defense is unsuccessful if the majority of the Dissertation Committee is of the opinion that the thesis does not satisfy the criteria of originality, scope, depth and quality, or if other grave problems dictate such an outcome (e.g., plagiarism).

In such a case, the Dissertation Committee will set a deadline for resubmission of the thesis, which may not be shorter than three months or longer than one year. If the examinee files an appeal against the decision to the CEU body as determined by CEU regulations, this deadline shall start running from the date of the final decision made by the appellate level.

The Dissertation Committee shall also provide the student with detailed requests for modifications to be formulated and communicated to the student either by the supervisor-Committee Member or by the student’s Program Chair.

The members of the Dissertation Committee to review the resubmitted thesis shall remain the same unless exceptional circumstances dictate otherwise.

If the examinee does not file an appeal, the resubmitted thesis shall be forwarded to the Dissertation Committee members, who will be asked to review the thesis based on the requests for modifications made and to express in writing whether the requested modifications have been satisfactorily complied with. If they are satisfied with the modifications made by the student, they shall also grade the resubmitted thesis.
Exceptionally, if the majority of the voting members so decide and if approved by the UDC, the oral defense may be repeated before the same or another Dissertation Committee.

The grade awarded for a resubmitted thesis may not be higher than magna cum laude.

If the student has filed an appeal against the Dissertation Committee decision, the decision of the appellate body will be applied.

7. Unsatisfactory progress and other breach of doctoral regulations
7.1. Probationary Candidates and Doctoral Candidates may be served for any infringement of these or the CEU Doctoral Regulations with the following measures:
   1. Warning given by the LEGS Doctoral Committee;
   2. Suspension or termination of doctoral status.

7.2. In particular the following acts qualify as an infringement of the Doctoral Regulations:
   a/ failure to participate in the doctoral activities without properly evidenced justification;
   b/ employment during the doctoral studies without the required permissions;
   c/ improper behavior during the doctoral studies or related doctoral activities;
   d/ continued neglect of duties (e.g., failure to conduct research and/or to produce reports on the work done for more than two calendar months).

7.3. The Head of the Department, Program Chairs, every member of the LEGS Doctoral Committee (if different) and a student’s supervisor have the right to initiate disciplinary proceedings according to this section.

7.4. The LEGS warnings are issued in written form and include a brief explanation of the reasons for issuing the warning. Students have a right of appeal to the CEU Doctoral Committee within 8 calendar days of receipt of the warning by the Doctoral or Probationary Candidate.

7.5. The termination of the doctoral status is imposed by the LEGS Doctoral Program Committee.

8. Appeals
8.1. Students can lodge an appeal against any decision made by the Doctoral Committee or one of the Examination Committees to the UDC. The appeal must be in writing and include the grounds for the appeal and the desired outcome of the appeal. All other appeals-related questions shall be decided upon based on the CEU level Regulations.
9.1. These Rules shall come into force eight days upon the placing of these Regulations on the website of the LEGS. The approval of these Regulations by the Provost is the precondition for placing the Regulations on the website.

9.2. All questions not regulated by these Regulations are governed by the provisions of the CEU Doctoral and other Regulations.

Head of the Department of Legal Studies
Prof. Renáta Uitz

Director of the Doctoral Program
Prof. Tibor Tajti
Decision of the LEGS Doctoral Committee of 5th of April 2012 on the Amendment of the Doctoral Regulations of CEU Department of Legal Studies

“In order to ensure that the thesis writing process and the submission of drafts to SJD supervisors proceed more efficiently, the LEGS Doctoral Committee has decided as follows. The LEGS Doctoral Regulations are hereby amended as follows: The text of Section 3.4. on the Thesis Structure-Proposal is deleted and replaced by the following:

3.4. Thesis Structure-Proposal and the Submission-Schedule

3.4.1. Probationary Doctoral Candidates shall submit their Thesis Structure-Proposal together with the Submission-Schedule:

a/ before the end of the first semester to their thesis supervisors;
b/ the Submission Schedule is to be added with specification of the submission dates for each chapter.

3.4.2. The Thesis Structure-Proposal is to contain:
- a brief introduction highlighting why the chosen topic is novel and how could the thesis be a significant contribution to the body of knowledge and understanding of the subject with which it deals;
- the preliminary table of contents;
- identification of the main issues and problems to be analyzed;
- identification and justification of the chosen jurisdictions; and
- preliminary bibliography with a separate list of sources with which the research shall be started.

3.4.4. The Submission-Schedule is to be made for the first three years of stipend-supported doctoral studies at CEU according to the following:

a/ the first draft of the introduction and the first chapter is to be submitted no later than the 20th of June of the first academic year;
b/ the first draft of a second chapter is to be submitted no later than the end of first semester of the second academic year;
c/ the first draft of a third chapter is to be submitted no later than the 20th of June of the second academic year;
d/ the first drafts of the remaining chapters ought to be submitted according to the schedule approved by the student’s supervisor;
e/ the subsequent chapters ought to be submitted within the deadline determined by the supervisor;
f/ in principle, by the second semester of the third year of residence-based doctoral studies the first drafts of all chapters are to be submitted to the supervisors, unless otherwise instructed by the supervisor.

3.4.5. In principle, no student can leave for research without having, at least, an approved draft of one chapter of the thesis (excluding introduction and conclusions).
3.4.6. Doctoral Candidates shall submit their revised thesis Structure-Proposals and Submission-Schedules (including submission dates for revised chapters) by the end of September of each Academic Year during their scholarship years.

3.4.7. Where a student deviates from the submission schedule or where the supervisor regards the submitted work to be unsatisfactory, the student's progress shall be reviewed by the LEGS Doctoral Committee. The LEGS Doctoral Committee may consider the imposition of proportionate sanctions, which include, but are not limited to: a) refusal to provide the student with academic references; (b) issuance of a formal written warning; (c) withdrawal of stipend until satisfactory progress is made; (d) termination of a student's doctoral studies.

3.4.8. Where a student's progress is to be reviewed by the LEGS Doctoral Committee under 3.4.7 above, the student shall be invited by his/her supervisor to submit in advance any written evidence of extenuating medical or compassionate circumstances that the student considers relevant to the LEGS Doctoral Committee's assessment. The Doctoral Committee shall consider only exceptionally and adequately proven objective reasons (e.g., pressing and unforeseen family circumstances, hospitalization). Evidence of ill-health must be authenticated by the student's medical advisor - self-certification will not be accepted. Medical certificates should be forwarded directly to the relevant Program Chair or to the Director of the Doctoral Program.

9. Transitory provisions
9.1 These amendments step into force, following of their approval by CEU Provost, on the day of their placement on the website of the LEGS.
9.2 These rules apply starting from the academic year 2012/13.
9.3 These rules will be implemented with respect to Doctoral Students already part of the program (i.e., Students in their first, second or third year of residence-based doctoral studies) as follows:
a/ All students are expected to submit a draft of a thesis chapter by the 20th of June 2012 to their supervisors;
b/ All students are expected to submit together with a draft chapter a submission schedule-proposal to their supervisors for approval specifying the planned dates of the submission of subsequent draft chapters. The submission schedule-proposals should match as closely as possible with the submission dates specified in section 3.4.4. above.
c/ During the summer holiday period (July or August 2012) the students shall work on the draft chapter as instructed by the student's supervisor.
d/ Where a student cannot submit the draft or where the supervisor regards the submitted work to be unsatisfactory, the student's progress shall be reviewed by the LEGS Doctoral Committee. The LEGS Doctoral Committee may consider the imposition of proportionate sanctions, which include, but are not limited to: a) refusal to provide the student with academic references; (b) issuance of a formal written warning; (c) withdrawal of stipend until satisfactory progress is made; or (d) termination of a student's doctoral studies."
